

Sinclair Broadcasting is misusing the public airwaves to unfairly attempt to affect an election outcome in the last weeks of a presidential campaign.

The anti kerry program is akin to an hour long political ad, and is an example of a rich media conglomerate using its muscle to affect voter sympathies.

The airwaves belong to the people, not the broadcasters, and Sinclair shhould respect the spirit of election law and not air this program.

The FCC should reconsider their license and ability to operate in states if they do not change their minds.
